the soldiers' and sailors' monument on Dec. 20 last, has brought a $25,000 damage suit in the Circuit Court against the Oolite Quarry Company, which concern had a contract for building certain parts of the monument. O'Connor was employed by the defendant and on Dec. 20 was assisting in hoisting and setting the rough stone out of which the figures on the east and west sides of the ument were to be carved. While at work the plaintiff slipped and fell a distance of forty-five feet. Both his arms were broken and one leg was fractured in three places. He was also injured internally, and avers that as a result of the accident he will be an invalid and cripple the rest of his life. O'Connor says he was told that it would be perfectly safe for him to work that day, although the stones were covered with sleet and snow that had fallen the night before. He says he was informed that a quantity of sand and salt had been sprinkled over the stones that would make it safe for him to work. In stepping about he slipped at a lace where the mixture of sand and salt had not been sprinkled. He had no means of knowing this, he avers, and he holds his employers responsible for the accident.

An Expert Bleacher's Suit. James Thompson, a resident of Oneida county, New York, has sued John C. Love in the Superior Court on a contract. The plaintiff says he is an expert in the process of bleaching and finishing cotton and in 1895 came to Indianapolis at the solicitation of the defendant to take charge of the "bleaching" department of the defendant's mills. Divorce Complaints. In a suit for divorce Silva P. Leach complains of Carrie L. Leach, to whom he was married on April 12, 1895. The plaintiff charges cruel treatment. He avers that on one occasion while he and the defendant were at the table eating she picked up a butcher knife and threatened to strike him. He was compelled to take the weapon from her. Leach charges that his wife intimated that she might cut his throat some night while he was sleeping. They separated on is considered unusually well done.

THE QUEEN A SECRET.

Much Speculation as to Terpsichore in the Carnival.

Last evening's rehearsal of those who will take part in the Carnival of Terpsichore gave rise to much speculation as to who will be queen of the carnival. This is a profound secret, and no one knows who will have this distinction. The queen has not yet been selected, and the selection is during the last ten years were not experishrouded in mystery, and no one knows who will make the selection or who the queen will be. Last evening's rehearsal at Tomlinson Hall was given up to the Bohemian dance and the American Beauties and Royal Middles dance. The former dance was gone through with twice and the latter once. Those in charge expressed the greatest satisfaction with the aptitude of those who take part, and before the evening was over the dances were most gracefully performed.

The dance of the Royal Middies and the American Beauties will be with one of the handsomest stage settings seen in this city. The battle ship Indiana, which will be a faithful diminished copy of the original, will play a conspicuous part in the climax, and | took to get the company to put them on. is said to be one of the most beautiful that has been put on the stage. The principal character, Columbia, is taken by Miss Augusta Jameson, and the American Beauties are Miss Baker, Miss Adams, Miss Fletcher, Miss Henley, Miss Craig, Miss Sullivan, Miss Wallick and Miss Taylor. The Royal Middies are Mr. Lynnwood, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Theodore Haughey, Mr. Morrison, Dr. Martin, Mr. Smith, Mr. W. Haughey and Mr. Johnston. This dance is under the direction of Mrs. S. E. Morss, who is taking a most enthusiastic interest in it. The Bohemian dance, which is a beautiful figure, was practiced. Mrs. E. S. R. Seguin has charge of this dance. Mrs. Arthur C. White, as queen of the tribe, last evening caused much favorable comment by her gracefulness and by the hearty manner in which she entered into her part in the usually nonattractive rehearsal without costumes. Those who will take the characters. in the tribe are Mr. Wiley, Mr. Reese, Mr. Haugh, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Jones, Mr. Roeman, Mr. Fox, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Lodge and Mr. Lynnwood and Miss Buchanan, Miss Hord, Miss Jameson, Miss Lockwood, Miss Moore, Miss Walker, Miss Porter, Mrs. Seguin and Mrs. White. Leo Pardello, one of Ernest Roeber's string of wrestlers, failed to put Harvey Parker to the mat in fifteen minutes at the Empire last night. After about seven minutes of playing for position Parker secured a waist hold, which he held, while the crowd yelled and offered advice, until the thirteenth minute, when Pardello broke away, only to be caught again in the same way and held until the expiration of the Morad Ali, the Turk, stayed against Roeber chiefly by defensive tactics. A match was arranged between Ali and Roeber for to-night, the Turk to throw Roeber in twenty minutes and win $250 or lose $50 in the event of fahure. Parker and Pardello will meet again in two bouts, Graeco-Roman and catch-as-catch-can.

The Fights Saturday Night. "Kid" Lefeber and John Kramer have been signed to box ten rounds as a preliminary to the Gardner-Bezenah go at the Empire Saturday night. This will make two ten-round contests, and both for decisions. The men will meet at catch weights, being in the welter-weight class. The regents devoted the balance of the meeting to a general discussion of the plans submitted for the bronze work, but no final action was taken on any of the propositions.

Public Vs. Private Management.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: In an editorial on municipal ownership, in Sunday's Journal, the opinion is expressed that "if street railways in all the cities were under municipal management, it is fair to assume that we would still have the horse and mule cars, for the reason that there would be no incentive to individuals to expend money in experiments for which no return would be made." Yet experiment and invention have not ceased in the development of fire-fighting apparatus, though fire departments all over the country are now and always have been under municipal management. In support of this point here contract would not be let at this meeting, is a paragraph from the last New York letter of the Indianapolis News:

"The fire commissioner has accepted the offer of the Auto-truck Company to place a fire engine, equipped with the air-power system of propulsion, on trial in the regular service of the department. A long period of probation will be required before any inches thick. In checking the journal up not | further steps are taken, but it is said that one vital mistake was found and the work | if the trials are entirely successful, all the apparatus in the department will be changed, and a great saving over the cost A number of inquiries are made regarding of maintaining horse service will be ef-Is the incentive to the designers and buildbe appointed administrator of the estate of law, but it is understood that the Governor ers in this case any the less that their pros-and not of a private corporation? Certainly not. Nor is the incentive lacking on the side of the city official. He represents the city. He conserves his own interest by conserving the city's interest. Self-interest is there as truly as if he were an official of a private corporation instead of a public one. It would be there in equal degree under a pubic system of reward for faithfulness as efficient as the private one, You say: "No city government in the world would put five or ten millions into an experimental electric plant." No; nor would any private firm or corporation. The electric plants which have been installed in this country Not a dollar was invested in commercial plants until it was made clear that electric power was better than previous methods. (See old prospectus of Citizens' Company, now circulating.) You say, also, We must accept the fact that personal interest is the inspiration which has pushed on the car of the world's progress. Remove it from men and a halt will be called on the material and social progress from the peisonous products of fermented. of the world." True; but it will be there even in greater degree under municipal management than under private management. Under the latter no improvements are adopted except those which directly or indirectly effect a money saving. But under the former those also would be adopted which contribute to the welfare of passengers of employes, even though entailing a money loss. There would be a broader channel through which incentive to progress would operative. Take the case of vestibules on street cars, for instance-what a fight it Or take the case of the railways and automatic couplings-under which kind of management, public or private, would be the greater incentive toward their adoption? Then, again, there are such facts as these to militate against your theory that nothing good can come out of the Nazareth of pubic management. That the postoffice is efficient; that the public schools are efficient;
